GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray glossy hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty and makes it grow.

BIG COPPER SMELTER SAID BE A SURPRISE

The manner in which the Mason Valley smelter has exceeded all the original expectations of the company is one of the much-discussed features of the present day smelting of copper ores in the west. When the plant was designed it was determined to put two furnaces in at first, each furnace having a rated capacity of 400 tons of ore a day. The company has one furnace in operation and the tonnage handled by this initial furnace is nearly double its rated capacity.

The local offices of the company, for instance, received word on Saturday that the Wednesday tonnage treated was about 625 tons, while the day following 708 tons were handled successfully. This means ore, not ore and flux combined. Those connected with the company are certain that the furnaces can be brought up to at least 800 tons of ore daily each, and no one connected officially with the Mason Valley company stints his praise when discussing this feature of the organization, credit being given with a generous and righteous hand to Manager Jules Labarthe.

To the smeltering plant installed by this company is due in part the credit for the good work being done. This plant has not been developed as yet to its maximum efficiency, but its successful operation at present allows fully 100 tons more ore being handled than anticipated. When the smeltering section is brought to its ultimate capacity and degree of efficiency it will have a still further favorable influence upon the tonnage capacity of the smelter.

The smelter was erected for the purpose of handling the copper ores of the Mason Valley and the Nevada-Douglas companies. Both of these mines are greater today than they were when the smelter plans were drawn up, so that the plant is securing all the fine smelting copper rock it can need. But Manager Labarthe is opening his eyes to every one in that section and he is getting as much as 140 tons daily from mines outside of the two mentioned. The Mason Valley company is in ideal shape throughout.—Salt Lake Herald.

HE WAGERED THAT HE WOULD COMMIT SUICIDE

The National Miner tells the following good one on an old Elkote: "Harvey McAdams is a westerner. Like all real sportsmen he has always his weather eye open for the chance that is expressed by 'the turn of the card.' He has had some very curious experiences along the western frontier in his span of 64 years. But none more striking than that in which he wagered $50 some years ago on a would-be suicide's death. The would-be suicide wagered McAdams $50 that in thirty minutes he would be dead. McAdams, a dead game sport, took the bet. The other party took a strong dose of poison and no sooner taken, the gambling wit of McAdams with lightning-like alertness, caused him to rush for a physician, and in seven minutes had him with stomach pump at the subject, with the result that the fellow did not die in thirty minutes. Still living the stakeholder turned the $50 over to McAdams. This illustrates the real western sport and is one of the very notable sensational gambling incidents in the experience of the old-time gambling era of the west. Later on the victim of the poison died, but McAdams saw first he would win and win he did. Do not overlook the fact that McAdams is still at it and still has that free, easy, game spirit that made the west so famous.

NEW POSTAL SAVINGS BANK TO BE OPENED

GARDNERVILLE SELECTED AND BANK WILL OPEN ABOUT MAY 1.

The government has taken favorable action upon the matter of establishing a postal savings bank in Gardnerville. Postmaster Jacobsen received notice of the decision this week and was also advised that all necessary blanks and forms for carrying on the banking business.

The postal inspector will visit Gardnerville during the next two weeks to instruct Postmaster Jacobsen in the new duties he is about to assume. In the meantime the postmaster is acquainting himself with instructions already received.

The savings department is to be opened on May 1st, according to advice already received.

The postal banks, of which there are several already established in Nevada, are strictly a savings proposition, accepting on deposit amounts up to $500 and paying interest thereon at the rate of 2 per cent per annum.

It has been claimed that the postal banks were originated for doing business with a class that heretofore have banked in a tin can hidden under the house. At any rate the postal banks have drawn out a great deal of cash that was never banked before.—Courier.

HUNDREDS OF TREES FOR WHITE PINE COURTHOUSE

Three hundred trees have been ordered by the board of county commissioners of White Pine county for improving the section of the court house grounds that lies between Clark and Aulman streets. As soon as they are received the work of beautifying that portion of the grounds will be undertaken along the lines originally planned by Engineer John H. Watterson. He designed the improvement of the entire court house reservation and the work on the unfinished portion will follow his designs.

Along the outside of the tract a row of Lombardy poplars will be planted while half a dozen other varieties will be distributed within the grounds. It is planned to make a rustic park of the section and in time it will doubtless be a popular place of resort for the people of Ely where open-air exercises will be held on festive occasions and where band concerts will be given. The improvement of the court house reservation was formally approved by the last grand jury and the finished portion has called forth the admiration of hundreds of strangers visiting the city as well as of residents of the county. The appearance of the grounds in the summer-time is a demonstration of the possibilities of the soil of the vicinity which is not as unfavorable for growth of vegetation as one might think from the natural appearance of the country surrounding Ely.
